Moore from 1878 to date, they claim to know what constitutes conservative farm mortgages.

BREED THEATER.

The Cowboy Coward, Strenuous Western Feature.

A western picture of unusual merit is the feature at the Breed today, and is entitled "A Cowboy Coward." It abounds in strong situations and is a plot worthy of a metropolitan production. The ranch owner's daughter finds it impossible to decide between her many cowboy suitors, but rather favors the one who is a coward. The cowboy, who is a coward, is a habit of gambling. Cash Wilkins, the bully of the town, insults the girl and takes from her a small revolver that she always carries. He sends a taunting note to her, saying that if she wants the gun to send Henry, another of her admirers for it. Henry is found in the presence of the bully, and knowing it, fears he must lose his sweetheart. Steve, with his big heart, sees Henry's predicament, and taking the note, gives to Henry, telling him to take it to Kate. She receives them with open arms, and never suspects that the note is from Henry. She gives the note to Kate, and Kate, who is a good thresher, which thoroughly cools his fighting spirit, and he is compelled to write a note of apology to Kate and leave the country forever.

Steve returns with the note to Kate, and also brings the revolver, and gives to Henry, telling him to take it to Kate. She receives them with open arms, and never suspects that the note is from Henry. She gives the note to Kate, and Kate, who is a good thresher, which thoroughly cools his fighting spirit, and he is compelled to write a note of apology to Kate and leave the country forever.

Prince Kar-Mi Coming to the Auditorium.

For a special engagement of a full week the management of this popular playhouse have booked the famous Prince Kar-Mi and his well known "Victorian" Troupe of Hindoo sword swallowers, acrobats, illusionists, etc.

This service will be in charge of the president, J. Oliver Armstrong. Subject, "The Church and the Y. P. C. U."

Kentucky's Dramatic Anti-Rum Bill. Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—The "county seat" bill, restricted to the most drastic anti-liquor legislation ever enacted in Kentucky, passed the senate today by a vote of 24 to 14. The measure, approved by the house, now goes to Governor McCreary, who is expected to sign it. Both democrats and republicans in the legislature last fall declared for such a law.

Rebel Ultimatum to Yuan. Shanghai, Jan. 25.—Simultaneously with the sending of President Sun Yat-sen's telegram of similar import to Yuan Shi Kai, the Banking assembly issued a public statement setting forth its adherence to the decision to debar Yuan Shi Kai from the presidency unless he first recognizes the republic.

PAINTING KAR-MI. Special scenery and effects and the work done by the different members of the troupe, which is the most astonishing mystery ever witnessed. Beautiful, starting, thrilling, amazing mystery of India. It is the limit of human endeavor to do with the belief and own eyes when you see the biggest vandeville act that ever played the Auditorium.

Another big feature on Monday's bill will be Fox and the record matinee team of the world from 1881 to 1912. Messrs. Fox and Ward are two old time minstrel men and have been seen at the famous Hippodrome, Peacock's, Burlesque, and the Grand Opera House, and then had their own minstrel company for several years.

On Thursday next Houston & Kirby will be a special attraction.

Today The Niagara Falls Celebration will be shown for the last time. It is very interesting and shows a great going over the Falls in a barrel.

JAMES CLANCY'S POLI.

The last three days of this week's show at James Clancy's Poli theater is proving very attractive. Helena Hardy, the impersonator of different types, is a classical act and could make good on any programme. She has a way of putting her offerings across the footlights which did not fail to draw many rounds of applause. The other two acts are very good. The dancing pictures are simply great these last two days. The Indian Picture and the dramatic films are of the very latest issue, and are absolutely the best ever seen in this city. Next week the programme seems to loom up in great shape, headed by George Nagel and Carrie Adams. They have an offering and style it "The Great Dime Show." They sing well, do some clever up to date patter, and Nagel is a comedian who knows how to draw laughs even from an Indian. Carrie Adams is a stunning looking woman with a pleasing personality. Frank J. Hurley, also on the programme, bills himself as a "trick" harmonica player and banjo player. He has a musical novelty that has played the best houses in the country, and from reports he should make good here. The other act, Turner and DeArms, will offer a juggling pantomime comedy. They have special apparatus which they utilize with great success. The moving picture and the dancing programme for Monday and Tuesday will be special. The one film, "Falls of the West," is a real that shows scenes and current events throughout the world. This will be the feature of the Poli programme every Monday and Tuesday. Three other films are to be displayed. The three shows daily, with a matinee and two full shows in the evening, is proving very popular. Those arriving late for the first show, the management announce, can remain over for the second without extra cost.

AT THE LYCEUM.

Miss Ada Meade, who comes to the Lyceum theater, New London, on Monday, Jan. 29, as prima donna in "Madame Sherry," has appeared in very few plays on tour previous to her present engagement. Miss Meade in recent years appeared with Miss Fritzi Sheff and alternated with the latter. For two seasons she played prima donna roles for the Aborn Opera Co. She is under three year contract with her present managers, and later is to appear in a new play, Miss Meade devotes her spare time to study and has an offer to go in grand opera, which she will most likely accept, at the termination of her present contract.
